

Stop, Drop, & Read

Written by Gayle Nobel

Wednesday, 25 August 2010 16:15 - Last Updated Wednesday, 25 August 2010 16:31

Blog-a-thon Day 30

The blog-a-thon finish line is clearly in sight. But don't worry, I will still be jogging... I mean, blogging.

Some people like to read the endings of books before they read the book. Are you one of those people? I'm not, though I do confess to skimming to the heart of a book once in awhile, especially non-fiction books.

If you have not yet read "Breathe", today you get to skip to the end and read the last chapter. I was a little hesitant to give it away but ended up doing it anyway because it seemed to fit the topic I was asked to write about. In reality, it is not really an ending anyway, but just another beginning.

I was invited to be a guest blogger on "Stop, Drop, and Read". I know, I know, it doesn't seem like I really fit there but there I am. Diana Dang has a fun and unique blog worth checking into. She likes to be diverse so there is something for everyone.

The topic was "post high school". This is a golden opportunity to sample a piece from "Breathe" minus the inspirational photo that goes with it. If it moves you, pass it on.

Stop, Drop, & Read

P.S. When you get there, you may need to give the wallpaper a chance to clear before you can begin reading. AND, just below the blog is an interview with me from April 2009.

Stop, Drop, & Read

Written by Gayle Nobel

Wednesday, 25 August 2010 16:15 - Last Updated Wednesday, 25 August 2010 16:31
